David was a single man who worked as a Coal Miner for Messrs Crawshaw and Warburton at Shaw Cross Pit.

He enlisted into the 12th (Pioneer) Battalion King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry serving as Private 12/1057 and was posted to Egypt on 22nd December 1915. He was killed in action on 1st July 1916 during the First Day of the Battle of the Somme, his body was recovered and he is buried in a joint grave in Queen's Cemetery, Puisieux, Pas-de-Calais, France, just over the border of the Somme Region. Puisieux is a village 15 kilometres north of Albert and 26 kilometres south of Arras. In the spring of 1917, the battlefields of the Somme and Ancre were cleared by V Corps and a number of new cemeteries were made. Queens Cemetery (originally known as Queens V Corps Cemetery No 4) is on the old front line of July 1916, south of Mark Copse, one of four small plantations that were on or close behind the line between Serre and Hebuterne. The graves are of casualties of the 31st, 3rd and 19th Divisions who died in July and November 1916, and February 1917.
